

Agricultural Researcher and entomologist (inset specialist), and enthusiastic promoter of agriculture and conservation in PNG, Deane Woruba, who's thesis has just been accepted for a PhD at the University of Western Sydney, will share details of his research and findings, and discuss related issues pertinent to farmers, pest control and agricultural research